JEFFRIES SAW TWO JOHNSONS AFTER BLOW IN HIS EYE

Said to His Seconds "I Strike at One and Miss, Then Other Hits Me".

Pall of Gloom Over Quarters of Former Champion.

CORBETT SAYS "TOLD YOU SO."

Reno, July 5.—Reno today is suffering from an attack of the "morning after." Jeffries' training camp is under the pall. Roger Cornell and "Farmer" Burns were up nearly all night ministering to him, assisted by Mrs. Jeffries. The banquet was called off and instead he partook of a little soup. Jeffries was blinded all night as the result of the blow on his right eye in the second round, it affecting the left eye also. His vision this morning is improved.

Jeff declined this morning to add any statement, attributing his defeat to the fact that his youth is gone. He feels bitter toward those who induced him to try to come back.

Corbett is the only member of his camp who takes the "I told you so" attitude; but he called the turn several days ago, declaring that Jeff's lack of boxing would show. Jeff probably will go back to his alfalfa farm.

Johnson in a statement said he will play vaudeville a few weeks and then go to Chicago.

Severing of youth may have been a factor in the downfall of Jeffries. There is no denying Johnson showed greater speed, strength and skill; but it was superior fighting qualities that won for him. Jeff lost everything he seemed to show while training, from the moment he stepped into the ring. He had absolutely nothing.

Why he should have gone to pieces on entering the ring, sporting men say was because Jack got Jeff's "goat." Some talk of a "lucky punch."

In the second round Johnson put a hard straight to Jeff's right eye. The optic nerve to swell. The moment it landed Jeff looked dazed to the men in his corner. The answer is simple. The other had been sympathetically blinded.

"I can see two Johnsons," said Jeffries to Roger Cornell, when the latter was fixing his eye. "I hit at one and miss, and then the other man hits me."

From then on, it is claimed, Jeffries lashed out merely by instinct. Jeff was slow from the start, and couldn't land a punch when he had the chance.

Governor Talks. In a statement to the United Press today Governor Dickerson said "Billy Muldoon paid a compliment which is highly appreciated by Nevada yesterday, when he referred to our state as the one remaining in the Union whose citizens still are free. I expect considerable agitation against boxing contests between this and the convening of the legislature, but it is widely known that the contest was on the level. I don't anticipate any movement to limit the rounds of glove contests."

Jeff is Still Dazed. Representatives of the Morris vaudeville circuit today telegraphed Corbett, making a flattering offer if he and Jeffries will appear in a boxing stunt on the stage. This is evidence that theatrical people don't believe Jeff has lost his value as an attraction. Corbett turned down the offer. Jeffries is in fair shape today. The swellings are all reduced. The worst is to his lip.

He appears to be still dazed. He says he doesn't remember stepping into the ring or anything about the fight. In fact, his action prior to the fight and immediately after caused talk that he was "doped," but his handlers deny this. His handlers declare the mental strain caused by hard training upset him. They say he acted like a child. Corbett declares he wandered off the aisle as he was being led to the ring.

The Champion's Home Coming. Chicago, July 5.—Escorted by two brass bands and the entire colored population of this city, Jack Johnson will make a triumphal entry into Chicago Thursday, drive through the streets in his touring car and alight and tread a carpet of roses as he enters his mother's home. There will be an elaborate feast for the champion.

Mrs. L. E. Ogilvie, wife of Patrolman L. E. Ogilvie, is ill at her home on Jefferson street.

SCHOOLS MAY SUE CITY TO SETTLE MOOTED QUESTION

Mayor Smith Suggests That Trustees Take it Before Judge Reed.

GENERAL COUNCIL MEETING.

At the regular meeting of the school board tonight, bids will be opened for the coal contract for next year, and a report made on the possibility of steam apparatus for south side schools.

City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., handed an opinion to Mayor Smith, that the city is not liable to the schools for any amount in excess of the actual amount apportioned to the schools, though more than that may be collected under the levy of 35 cents for school purposes. He found that some years, figuring on this basis, the city overpaid the schools, and in other years it underpaid them. He suggested that when anticipated revenue is received by the city, to which the schools are morally entitled, the general council should amend the apportionment ordinance during the year. Mayor Smith suggested to the school trustees that they prosecute a friendly suit against the city before Judge Reed in order to settle the question.

The General Council.

The general council will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the city hall in adjourned session from last night. Both boards met last night, but owing to it being a holiday, the meeting was declared off until tonight.

Much important business will come before the two boards tonight, including the semi-annual school licenses. Saloons, holding licenses, are allowed to remain open until after the council passes upon their applications for renewals. The police have been watching all of the saloons since the first of July to see that those who are going out of business do not remain open.

The ordinance, suggested by former Health Officer Dr. H. P. Sights, which will require all servants to obtain health permits before being employed will be introduced tonight. It is rumored that the ordinance will not go through.

BALLINGER WON'T RESIGN CABINET POSITION TODAY

Inform Newspapermen That He Has No Intention of "Quitting".

Visits President on Official Business.

INSURGENTS AT OYSTER BAY

Beverly, Mass., July 5.—"I've never been a quitter. I didn't bring any resignations with me, I don't expect to leave at once."

"This was the reply of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, to the question whether he hadn't come to the summer capital to resign his place as a member of the Taft cabinet."

He declared he was here to talk over with the president a reorganization plan for the land office and to reclamation service as the result of new legislation.

Ballinger was in conference with President Taft this afternoon. Although the meeting was announced as being a conference over the issuance of reclamation bonds, it is understood on good authority, that the fate of F. H. Newell, director of the reclamation service, is to be determined.

Newell and Ballinger are on the "outs."

The secretary arrived early and put in the morning sightseeing around Beverly. He went to the Taft cottage about noon, and had luncheon with the president and were in conference during the greater part of the afternoon.

An open breach has existed between Ballinger and Newell since the former assumed office. Before congressional investigating committee, Ballinger stated that he didn't believe Newell was the man for the place. Letters admitted in evidence tended to show he had offered the job to another man.

With the new army board, it is believed Newell's service can be dispensed with without a disruption service. The Bureau has been demoralized some time over the feeling that there is to be a general shake up.

President Taft played golf at Myopia this morning. Mr. Taft and daughter Helen were in Beverly.

Poindexter at Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 5.—Representative Poindexter, of Washington, one of the most radical insurgents in congress, today is the guest of Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill, with the indication that he would have interesting things to say at the conclusion of his visit. To the newspapermen Poindexter declared he would have nothing to say until his return. Then he hoped to have some good news for them. Today is the climax of a series of pilgrimages to Oyster Bay by insurgents.

Roosevelt already has received Senators LaFollette, and Brewster, and Congressman Murdock, and Madison. All came away with predictions that Roosevelt would support the progressive movement. Insurgents believe Poindexter's visit will strengthen the cause.

A Pretty Home Wedding.

A pretty home wedding took place last night at 9 o'clock, when Miss Lillie Rolfe and Mr. John Beckelhymer were married at the home of the bride, 1200 Hampton avenue. The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. M. E. Dodd, pastor of the First Baptist church. Miss Nannie Mills was the maid of honor, and Mr. Victor I. Knowles the best man. The bride looked charming in a wedding gown of white organdy made empire, and carried a shower of bride's roses. She is the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Blackwell and a popular young woman. Mr. Beckelhymer is a potter at the Paducah Pottery company, and a young man highly esteemed. They will reside on Bernheim avenue. The house was prettily decorated for the wedding, with red and white carnations.

JIM JEFFRIES COULD NOT "COME BACK"; COMPLETELY KNOCKED OUT BY JACK JOHNSON IN FIFTEEN FURIOUS ROUNDS

HOW THE BATTLE TOOK PLACE BY ROUNDS BEFORE GREAT THROU- DIVISION OF THE PURSE—HEAT WAS INTENSE.

PADUCAHANS THERE.

Two Paducahans saw the fight at Reno yesterday and a third would if he could have traveled the distance in time to occupy the $40 seat, to which he possessed. Leon Blythe and Charles Seamon were the fortunate Paducahans, while the unfortunate was Robert Wathen. Sunday Mr. Wathen received a ticket to a $40 seat from a friend in the west. The ticket was mailed some time ago, but was delayed in the mails and did not arrive until it was too late to start for the ring-side. The arrival of the ticket was a surprise to Mr. Wathen, and a disappointment because it arrived too late.

Reno, Nev., July 5.—Jack Johnson knocked out Jim Jeffries in the fifteenth round. Jeffries was counted out as he hung over the ropes, after going down three times. His seconds began crowding into the ring before the timekeeper could count ten.

The fight was a one-sided affair from the start. The negro blocked the old champion's blows at every stage of the game and punished him severely in the last five rounds of the fighting. At the beginning of the thirteenth round the experts at the ringside passed out the verdict that if Jeffries would simply stand and not fight he might stay the limit.

Jeff Gives Up Fight.

As they came up for the fifteenth round Johnson went at him savagely. He sent Jeffries down the first time with a rain of lefts and rights to the jaw, and Jeffries took the count of eight twice. Each time Jeffries fell outside the lower ropes on the platform.

As Jeffries got up the second time and staggered for Johnson, the latter sprang at him like a tiger and with a left swing to the jaw sent him through the ropes on the east side of the ring, where he lay until the count of ten.

Jeffries was not counted out. As the timekeeper's hand moved up and down the towel was brought into the ring from Jeffries' corner. Whether counted out or not, it probably will be recorded as a knockout.

As Jeffries was helped to his corner he said: "I am not a good fighter any longer. I could not come back. Boys, I could not come back. Ask Johnson if he will give me his gloves."

Johnson Fresh at End.

As Jeffries hung to the ropes after the knockdown, hundreds of his friends rushed to the ropes and cried "Please don't let the old man be knocked out. Stop it." But the timekeeper kept on to the fatal end.

When the count of seven had been reached and it was evident that the white champion had been finished, at least a hundred people broke through the ropes, and Timekeeper Hurling was screened from the ring by the crowd. The confusion was so great that no announcement from the ring officials was audible.

When Jeffries was led back to his corner by Corbett, Berger and Jack Jeffries, he was still dazed. Johnson stood in the center of the ring and received the congratulations of Billy Delaney and his other seconds. As he talked to Delaney he was breathing absolutely normal. He was not hurt in any way. Sig Hart said to the champion: "Go over and shake hands with the poor old fellow, Jack."

Stolid in Defeat.

"No, I don't owe him anything now," said Johnson.

Later he went to Jeffries' corner, but Jim Corbett and Jack O'Brien waved him away. When he returned to his own corner the crowd in the ring was so dense that the police had to beat them back. The first man to congratulate him in his corner was John L. Sullivan.

Jeffries was attended by his physician as he sat in his corner. He sat shaking his head sadly for a few minutes and then was led to his dressing-room. Soon afterward he was taken to his camp at Moana Springs.

As soon as the men left the ring the crowd began the destruction of the ring. The ropes were cut into bits, the canvas ripped up and snipped into small pieces and even the staples that held the canvas were unscrewed and taken as souvenirs. The gates were opened at 12 o'clock sharp. Thousands were then thronged about the four entrances, the majority being formed in thin, serpentine columns that stretched through all parts of the grounds. As the gates swung aside there was a great rush for the turnstiles, and the surging crowds poured rapidly into the inclosure.

In less than fifteen minutes the gallery seats and the wide platform skirting the topmost outer rim of the arena was half filled. Coming in from the cool, wind-swept spaces of the flat country surrounding the battle grounds, a startling change of temperature was noted in the arena. The bare pine boards generated a terrific heat from the scorching sun, and the early comers immediately proceeded to shed their coats and collars. Thirty feet from the ring-side, and due west, where the sun would not interfere, a battery of nine motion picture machines, superimposed in rows of three above one another, was being manned and made ready for the work of the afternoon.

An American flag dropped from its staff above each of the four entrances. Boxes built for women at the top of the outer west walls of the inclosure were soon filled, and the gaudy hats of the occupants adding a vivid touch of color to the scene. Half an hour after the gates were opened the vast arena was more than two-thirds filled with a sweltering mass of humanity.

Heat Was Terrible.

The heat beat down on the crowd out of a perfectly clear sky and was almost unbearable.

Fight by Rounds.

shot a right into Johnson's mouth, and then the same fist in the midst of his belly. There was blood on Johnson's lips. They rushed into a clinch and fought while they held together. Jeff got in a right on body and on the mouth. Johnson poked up a left uppercut several times but never hurt. They held quite a while, and the crowd yelled for them to fight. Johnson shot in a straight left on the mouth and Jeff closed in and dug three lefts into Johnson's stomach. Johnson got home with three uppercuts in succession, lifting Jeff's chin in the air each time. Johnson tried a short right for jaw which reached Jeff as the latter was ducking and the blow did not hurt. The question of strength between two men was equal.

Fifteenth Round.—Jeff crouched as he came forward. He struck away from a straight left again when Johnson went through the motions of feinting. They feinted into a clinch, no blows being struck. Johnson landed above the hip with a light left and they clinched. Jeff poked the body with left at close twice in the face with the left. There was a slight smear of blood on his lips. Johnson met Jeff with a straight right and Jeff drove a solid looking right into the body. They hung together. Johnson poked the left into face. Johnson shot in a straight left and right to the face. A shot left on the face from Jeff brought more blood. Jeff crouched and sent in an overhanded left, which sent Johnson's head back. It was a clean punch and the crowd cheered. They patted each other on the back with the bell finding them in a clinch.

Sixth Round.—Jeff crouched again, then straightened. Johnson drove Jeff to the ropes, putting three lefts to the face without landing cleanly with any of them. They clinched. Johnson hooked Jeff with the left in the face in a clinch. The skin was scraped on Jeff's left cheek and the blood showed. Johnson's left went around Jeff's neck, and they clinched. Jeff blocked a left and right and drove his right against the ribs. Johnson uppercut Jeff with the left and Jeff placed both gloves on the body with good force and they clinched. Johnson forced his left arm and uppercut Jeff with left, almost closing Jeff's right eye. Then Johnson worked the right uppercut, reaching the face. Jeff rubbed his swollen eye as he went to his corner.

Eighth Round.—Jeff went to close quarters quickly and clinched. Johnson used a left on the face. Jeff seemed unable to escape punishment. Johnson shot in a double left on the jaw and both landed. Johnson began feinting Corbett in Jeff's corner, asking him how he liked the looks of things. Corbett replied that he who laughs last laughs best. Jeff got to the ribs with a smash, and in the clinch following Johnson poked a left to the face and a right on the body. It was a long drawn clinch and Johnson used his right across the back. They were in a clinch at the bell.

Ninth Round.—Jeff began to look a little dismal for Jeff came forward crouching. Johnson danced away and tried a straight left which was blocked. Jeff shoved a right against the ribs. They clinched. They broke and Jeff shot a right in the stomach. Another clinch. Jeff blocked a left uppercut. They clinched. While breaking, Johnson got in a left on the face. Jeff got home with a left on the ribs. Another clinch and Jeff lashed his chin on Johnson's right shoulder, where he was safe from uppercuts. Johnson was smiling and seemed brighter than when he entered the ring. Jeff ducked a left and drove the right in the pit of the stomach, making Johnson grunt. Johnson was there with a straight left on the mouth and followed with another. Jeff got to Johnson on the ribs with the left, and they clinched again.

NOW YOU CAN SLEEP

Those who find it necessary to get up several times during the night, losing a sleep on account of bladder weakness or out of order kidneys will find that a few doses of the new Barksol Globes treatment will correct the trouble very quickly, relieve the backache in a few hours and restore healthy, normal kidney and bladder action. Druggists say this new medicine is already outselling any similar preparation, which seems a good recommendation. A prominent downtown druggist, speaking of the Barksol Globes treatment, said there is much satisfaction in handling such a medicine, for every one seems pleased with it. An offer to refund the money to any one who is not benefited by it, has been made by Gilbert's Drug Store.

the face, and Jeff laughed as though he enjoyed it. Johnson put in a right uppercut and as they clinched Jeff whaled into the body with a hard right. They clinched again and Jeff got to the body with both hands. In the clinch Johnson freed his right and left and right in turn and gave Jeff smacking blows in the face. The negro was certainly the master at clinch fighting. Jeff bled freely from mouth and nose from punches at close quarters. Jeff got in on body with left. As they closed in Johnson yanked each arm free in turn and smashed Jeff in the face. Johnson put in a swinging right uppercut and Jeff got in two rights and lefts on the body just before the bell.

Twelfth Round.—Jeff ducked well under a left swing and clinched. They pushed around and Johnson was nodding and grinning at someone in the crowd. They broke. Jeff tried a high left and missed and Johnson missed a right on the jaw. At outfighting both men used clever defense, but in the clinches Johnson punched Jeff's face repeatedly with the left. Jeff's swollen right eye became bigger and bigger from the effects of the jolting punches, and blood came from his mouth and nose. Johnson's blocking when out-fighting was particularly effective. Johnson got in a straight left on the mouth and Jeff came back with the straight left on the stomach. Johnson grazed Jeff's chin with a right and missed with another right.

Thirteenth Round.—There was nothing about Jeff's legs to suggest he was tired, though his face had a rather discouraging appearance. Johnson landed light left hook on Jim's face and they clinched. Johnson hooked the face with the left. In the clinch that followed Jeff freed his left and got to the face three times. Then he used the right the same way. He uppercut with the left again as Jim seemed to have no way of saving himself from those hateful little pokes at close quarters. Jeff tried to imitate Johnson's uppercut and failed. Then Johnson, while they were heading together, yanked left and right loose in turn and rapped Jeff again and again.

He pushed Jeff against the ropes and caught him with lefts and rights. Jeff clinched again. Jeff punched Johnson into a corner and used both hands on the face. Jeff's face was swollen and covered with blood. Johnson eyed him closely in the clinch. When they broke Johnson let go with the right for the jaw. He did this three times and reached the mouth. It looked bad for Jeff as he went to his corner.

Fourteenth Round.—Jeff's head hung low as he sat in his corner. They clinched. They parried quickly. Johnson poked in a straight left. Johnson tried another straight left and upwinding with success, and they clinched. Jeff swung a left to the cheek. Johnson feinted rapidly and got home with two straight lefts. Johnson looked as he felt he was master of the situation. He was confident now. Jeff put in a high left on the mouth, and in the clinch that followed Johnson jolted him in the mouth with the left. Jeff was unable to protect himself from this blow, of which he received several. The blows did not seem to distress when Jeff lowered his head while clinching and shoved his left against the body three times. Johnson came back with a straight left on the face and a hook on the chin. They clinched again. Johnson's left was seldom out of Jeff's face. Johnson yelled at Corbett: "He's too clever, like you."

Fifteenth Round.—There were no bright faces in Jeff's corner and it certainly looked as though the big fellow was fading away. Jeff came out with his guard hed him and blocked a straight left, and they clinched near the ropes. As they broke away Johnson sent a left on the chin and Jeff went against the ropes. He arose slowly and Johnson knocked him through the ropes with another left swing. As a matter of fact Jeff was knocked out this time, as the count of ten elapsed before he was pulled to his feet and into the ring. Jeff spat and reeled around the ring with Johnson after him. Johnson struck him with the left and right, both times in the face. Jeff fell again but arose to his feet slowly, but was counted out meanwhile, and Sam Berger jumped into the ring with the evident intention of acknowledging defeat in case the knockout had not been complete.

Rain Prevented Games.

Vincennes, Ind., July 5.—Heavy rain prevented the double header scheduled between Vincennes and Paducah yesterday. Only two games out of the series of five games were played as rain made a pond of the diamond on Sunday afternoon. Seeing that the games could not be played yesterday both teams made an early getaway. Paducah left for Hopkinsville while the Alices traveled to Clarksville. As a result of the rest all of the pitchers are in first-class trim.

Hoopers Get Both.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 5.—Hopkinsville took both games of a double header yesterday, winning from the leaders. The feat of the tailenders proved a delightful surprise to a big bunch of fans. In the afternoon the Hoopers secured only three hits, but they were bunched, and counted for scores.

The morning game was:

Score—	R	H	E
Hopkinsville	3	7	3
Clarksville	2	5	1

Empire Sam Goodman has resigned his position and has accepted a position as traveling salesman. He arrived in the city Sunday and left for Louisville, where he has accepted a position with the Klein-Grossman Ladies' and Gentlemen's Furnishing company, to travel in southern Indiana. His family will remove to Louisville later. Mr. Goodman has resided in Paducah for three years, and has a host of friends in the city. He was a well known athlete, playing baseball and basketball. Two weeks ago he accepted a position as umpire in the Kitty league, and his work was giving satisfaction.

NEW CROP NOW BECOMES FACTOR

WINTER WHEAT ON ROAD TO MARKET CENTERS.

Professional Crop-Killer is Making Much Noise—Prices Above the Export Basis.

GOOD RAINS HELP THE CORN

Chicago, July 5.—Although the northwest has not had a good general wetting down during the past week, light rains have fallen in a goodly portion of the spring wheat country and the situation there at the end of the week was considered better. It is not denied that considerable damage has been done, but it is now the opinion of the trade that just a few spots have been injured and this only in exposed places on poor soil or poorly farmed land. Fortunately, the above situation is by no means general, despite the noise that the professional crop-killer has been making, and it may turn out—as in Kansas and Nebraska—that the rains will make a very fair crop after all.

The crop experts who are in the fields have sent in some gloomy reports, but, say the conservatives in the trade, no matter how reliable and valuable the crop expert's testimony may be, he cannot see it all and the reports that are forwarded piecemeal usually refer to limited localities or sections. Thus far the most radical of the claims are for a loss of 60,000,000 bushels from the previous outlook for the northwest-corn crop. Deducting this from the June 1 indicated yield of 726,000,000 bushels would mean a total of 666,000,000 bushels of winter and spring wheat.

Prices Above Export Basis.
It will be seen from the above, taken in connection with the fact that prices are far above an export basis, that current values are unhealthy and unnatural. Whether they will be maintained or even advanced still further by speculative fears or excitement remains to be seen. Conservative interests are, however, sounding a note of warning against any course that will dam up or reverse the natural channels of trade, and it is a matter of record that such a course has usually brought a penalty.

Meanwhile the movement of new crop winter wheat has already begun in a moderate way in the southwest, and, as harvest extends further north, the movement can be expected to increase. In view of the fact that the domestic milling demand is limited, it is perhaps fortunate that the crop losses of the northwest have induced sales by producers southwest.

Another effect of the crop losses in America has been to cause a little hardening of prices in Europe. The latter, however, has been insignificant thus far, and, unless there are also some very important crop losses abroad, it is not likely that American values will interest the trade abroad.

Wheat Makes Good Gains.
Wheat made good gains in prices on Monday when hot weather and the lack of rain northwest and unfavorable crop and weather advices from the Canadian northwest, supported by higher markets in that section, dominated values here. Ad-

KEEP THE BOWELS ACTIVE.
No one can keep well with a lot of impurities blocked up in the system. The blood must have fresh material from which to draw its food—not a poisonous mass of waste matter. See that the bowels are kept active and you need never feel ill or be liable to disease. The pleasant way—the gentle yet firm way—to keep sluggish bowels in good order is to take Dr. Edwards' little sugar coated Olive Tablets. Dr. Edwards put fifteen years of experience into these tablets. They cure torpid liver, bad breath, pimples and purge the blood of all impurities. The Olive Oil in them soothes and heals wonderfully. All druggists sell them in 10 and 25 cent packages—to fit the vest pocket.

vances in the Canadian markets were rather sensational, and the news from Winnipeg indicated that hot weather had inflicted serious damage on crops in a part of the Canadian northwest. Bad crop reports poured in also from North Dakota and kept prices strong at Minneapolis and Duluth. The official weather news of the day, however, showed cooler temperatures in the Canadian northwest following the hot weather of Saturday and Sunday. Temperatures were also mild in Minnesota and South Dakota, where the rainfall had been considerable in the preceding 48 hours. Meanwhile, railroad advices regarding crops northwest were unfavorable and the stock market was very weak, thus giving much color to the reports of crop experts and strengthening the general belief of important crop losses. News from the winter wheat country was the reverse from that of the spring wheat fields.

Prices Keep Soaring.

Prices kept on soaring on Tuesday, speculative attention being riveted to the wheat fields of the northwest. All other sections were ignored.
There was very little news in the rehash of crop damage claims that poured in, but there was no lack of volume. Strangely enough, the news was as effective in exciting the trade as before, and prices made new high points for the present advance.
There was enough new speculative and investment buying, as well as covering by distressed shorts, to absorb an enormous quantity of wheat.
Although there was plenty on sale at each sharp advance, each one of the latter went further than the one before. It was notable, however, that the recessions were more sudden and severe as the day advanced. There was a great deal of eastern selling of long wheat in this market which had been taken the previous week or since, after the stock market began to weaken on crop damage claims. Foreigners also were selling more or less wheat here.

Profits Weaken Considerably.

On Wednesday the bulls began to take some of their profits and the market was weakened considerably.
A higher start was in sympathy with the Minneapolis market. The strength there was brief, as it was met by heavy and influential selling.
Not only was the early northwest advance wiped out, but a decline was substituted in the active trading profits on a rising market during the three or four days previous were increasing their sales, and miscellaneous longs finally caught the temper of the trade and unloaded.
There was a great deal of vigorous short selling, but it was confined to a few local speculators. Less hysteria and more disposition to deliberately weigh up the legitimate influences affecting wheat were seen in Wednesday's market. The trade assumed that the big advance in prices in the last two weeks had not only discounted the damage, but had carried the markets out of line with the southwest. The latter was feeling the weight of offerings of old and new wheat, with every prospect that the pressure of both would increase later.

Rain Weakens Wheat.

On Thursday rains in North Dakota further weakened wheat, and the Kansas crop report showing a condition nine points higher than was given by the government report, helped the decline along. On Friday, however, there was another change in sentiment, the heavy selling of the two previous days having put the trade in an overbearish position. Excellent buying was in evidence, and much of the decline of Wednesday and Thursday was recovered. July wheat at the end of the week was 1 1/4 cent lower, September 1/2 cent lower and December lost 1/4 cent.

Good rains, covering a greater part of the corn belt, along with free offerings of cash and futures by the country, precipitated a great deal of speculative selling in that market last week. Quite a number of traders who had a chance to view the corn fields were very bearish in their ideas. "In some cases the corn was reported to have doubled in height during the last week. July corn decline 1 1/2 cents for the week, September was 1/2 cent lower, and December lost 1/2 cent.

Personally appeared before me the 2nd day of July, 1910, R. D. MacMillen, Business Manager of The Sun, who affirms that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of its circulation for the month of June, 1910, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

PETER PURYEAR,

Notary Public.

My commission expires January 19, 1912.

Daily Thought.

It does not suffice merely to write so as to be understood. The writer must so express himself that he cannot be misunderstood.—Quintilian.

Yesterday was also the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, which took place July 4, 1776.

Since New Orleans and San Francisco are acting so ugly about that Panama exposition, we suggest it be taken to Reno.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are the rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights governments are instituted among men."

DESERVING OF ENCOURAGEMENT.

To those public-spirited and courageous gentlemen, who took the initiative in promoting the mid-summer race meet, we extend our sympathy. They were unfortunate, first in the sickness of "Reelfoot," and then in the interference of the rains. They did their best to afford high-class sport for the public, and they deserve redoubled encouragement hereafter. There is just one way, of course, to encourage them, and that is by patronizing the sport. Moreover citizens of Paducah must lead in the patronage of the fair fall. If the patronage is not large, necessarily the exhibition cannot be improved each year; and, it goes without saying, if Paducah people do not patronize their own fair, they cannot expect people from a distance to do so.

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE TIMES.

The death of Chief Justice Fuller, following so quickly that of Justice Brewer, and the contemplated retirement of Justice Moody on account of ill health, provide an opportunity for a significant change in the makeup of the supreme court of the United States. Justice Harlan, who is quite venerable, is likely to retire before President Taft's term expires, and if the president lives out his term, it is altogether probable that, at least, four of the nine justices will have been appointed by him. As the supreme court is the tribunal, which ultimately makes our laws and directs the attitude of governmental policy toward social and industrial relations in the broader sense, a change in the personnel of the court, just at this time, when there is such a widespread interest in ethical values, may have a permanent and far-reaching effect on national life; for, while the supreme court does not frequently reverse itself, its attitude toward the subject matter of cases, generally reflects to a degree the sentiment of the age in which the justices live.

IN THE THIRD DISTRICT.

While factional differences may agitate the Democrats, the Republicans in the Third senatorial district, and, particularly, Calloway county, should find no difficulty in the situa-

HOW NEWS WAS HANDLED

As usual when anything big in the way of news breaks loose, The Evening Sun had the biggest crowd to hear the fight news returns.

And such a crowd! It reached from Broadway to Kentucky avenue, on Third street, despite the fact that about every five minutes the weather man would turn his pet cocks loose and down would come a heavy shower, drenching every one to the bone. Paducah, especially that portion of it making up that crowd, was a wet town for sure.

And The Evening Sun had the news, too—the best news, the first news, the most complete news. The fighters entered the ring at 4:46, Paducah time, and every four minutes a detail of the rounds was given the crowd in the street and in the office, by megaphone.

Just as an illustration of how much faster the news was served, The Sun had given the fifteenth round, with Jeffries down and out, while the News-Democrat was flashing the twelfth round. And long before the morning paper had the flash of the victory, The Sun crowd had departed. So much for a comparison of news service.

The Evening Sun had a complete tion. They cannot carry the district with an old-time majority against them in Calloway, and they carried Calloway county at the last election only with Democratic votes. They have no chance if they alienate their new found allies, and, so, it is no time for exhibiting personal ambitions.

The only thing for the Republicans of the district to do is to secure a high-class man for a candidate for state senator, who will appeal to all voters, regardless of party. That, of course, is the proper thing for the Democrats to do also; but the situation in Calloway gives little promise of consideration for the voters. Republican leaders believe liberal Democrats should be consulted about the choice for candidate, and The Sun agrees with them. It would be folly for a Republican to bob up and make the race for the nomination, unless he is assured of support from that element of the Democratic party, which is opposed to ring rule in the county and district, and all aspirants should wait until they hear from this element before they inject their personalities into the race.

THE SANE FOURTH.

The rational celebration of Independence day without the dangerous explosives and the pestiferous accompaniments of ingenious devices to frighten men and horses, is an accomplished fact. From all over the land come reports of pageants, parades and patriotic demonstrations, that lacked nothing in fervor for being free from unusual hazards. Pittsburgh, with three deaths, is the only big city in the land that reports more than one death. Last year New York had 388 serious injuries; this year 87. The shooting was not inherently reprehensible; it simply was dangerous and, therefore, foolish.

CRAVING FOR EXCITEMENT.

Trite moral lessons are not hard to draw from such an event as the fistie encounter between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries; but the best use of the subject for the moralist is to draw attention to his own morals by reference to matter of so timely interest.

The fighting game itself, of course, is doomed. This was sealed when the padded gloves were substituted for skin tight gloves, when hitting in clinches and below the belt was barred. Restrictions on evil, like girders on trees, mean eventual death to them. They flourish only in the untrammeled state. Whether or not this will be the last fight, we are unable to prophesy. Profits are sometimes the determining factor, and they were immense for all concerned.

But even the obvious fact that those who entertain the public are much more richly rewarded than those who serve it is no new thing under the sun. Back in the days when kings reigned by divine right, the clever courtiers who contrived ingenious methods of dispelling royal ennui, were the favorites; and statesmen of the realms prospered only as they used these favorites to their ends, or necessity forced the kings to lean upon them. Now, that Vox Populi has succeeded to the divine prerogative, the fickle public's smile is the sign of royal favor and the acknowledged road to wealth.

The prize fight, of course, is financially supported by a comparatively small proportion of the populace. The big sports, mentioned in the accounts of the affair, are the promoters, who made money off them; though the general public will contribute its mite to the aggregate of its mites to the fortunes of those, who dared to risk.

General interest in the event, like general interest in all sports, is a reminder that we have lost none of our individuality by living in a community. We crave a stimulus that will lift us out of the rut of the every day grind. When we begin a reform we are too prone, sometimes, to consider humanity in the mass, instead of individually, as did the Great Example for all reformers. That is why we are inclined to be harsh toward those forms of diversion, which do not appeal to us, and rather liberal toward those which do.

Stimuli that make the heart pump a few beats faster for a little while, that make the nerves tingle and excite the lymphatic system to renewed activity, are not to be despised. Some people are more readily exhilarated than others, a swing or a dance will do as much for them as a big drink will for others. Unfortunately, some of us think that because the stimulation is physiologically beneficial, anything which mildly stimulates is good. Others, recognizing the evil of the stimulants, go too far the other way and think it wrong to get excited.

The trouble with the former is that their stimulants are followed by equal and opposite reaction; and a nervous system, even keen to adjust itself to new conditions, too often played upon, refuses to respond to the same stimuli, or requires them eventually in order to remain normal. Those quiet lives that find invigorating refreshment in the occasional dissipation afforded by a visit to the country, live longest and best. The cure for over-indulgence in any form of stimulant, is change of stimuli and association. It is true that many people, like children who must be taught to play, require assistance in seeking diversion. City life breeds this sort. How much the superiority of a race living under a Democratic form of government, owes to the annual election excitement, we can not tell, even though specialists are warning us that we are becoming victims of neurasthenia.

We are not so far from the subject, after all. The people get excited over the prize fight, just because they desired something to get excited over. It is a natural craving, which can be over-indulged. Also it is over-indulged. And don't forget that is worse than the lack of indulgence.

Would it be permissible to suggest that Mr. Jeffries got the "Big Cander" in his eye?

NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN RAILROAD AND MEN PENDING.

Committee of the Paducah Machinists Say They Have Not Accepted.

Although negotiations are still pending the machinists have not accepted the terms offered by the Illinois Central railroad on the agreement for next year. The railroad has offered an increase of two cents on the hour. The committee of the Paducah machinists, composed of Harry Kelley and Jeff Bell, returned to Paducah Saturday night and reported that the union had not accepted the terms. They returned to Chicago last night to attend the conference.

The blacksmiths has accepted officially the increase, which ranges from two to three cents for the hour while the helpers receive an increase of one and one-half cents an hour. It is believed that the railroad and the machinists will reach an agreement on the new wage scale in a short time. It is not given out what hinders the signing of the agreement.

Many employees spent Sunday and Monday out of the city, but reported for duty today. Only a small force worked yesterday, as the entire shops were closed with the exception of the force necessary to maintain the running repairs.

Will Kense, of the tool room, was off duty owing to illness.

Several hundred excursionists came here yesterday to get "rained out." The Cowling made three trips from Metropolis, the last being at 7 p. m. The Ohio brought a large crowd from Livingston county and the J. B. Richardson, which came from Nashville at noon Sunday, took a large number away at noon yesterday.

Enjoying a good passenger and freight list, the Nashville arrived this afternoon from Nashville, Tenn., and leaves for a return trip at 6 p. m. She will return here Saturday.

Freight is being received for the Clyde at the wharfboat. She arrived at noon Sunday from Waterloo, Ala. 24 hours ahead of schedule, and will leave for a return trip tomorrow evening at 6 p. m.

The Evansville packet today was the John S. Hopkins, which enjoyed a good business.

From Jopka, Ill., the towboat Condor arrived here at noon Monday, and returned this morning with a small tow of ties brought in from the Tennessee by the W. T. Hardison which arrived at 7 o'clock.

The following towboats left heretoday to load ties: Chancy Lamb, for the Cumberland river; Hosmer, for Evansville and Green river, and the Duffy for Florence, Ala.

The John L. Lowry will be the packet in the Paducah and Evansville trade tomorrow.

All about the new ferryboat G. W. Robertson is about completed barring the finishing touches. She will be one of the handsomest boats of her kind in the United States and her tonnage and capacity for freight and passengers will be almost inconceivable. She is monstrous, shapely and with every appearance of an excursion boat. A speed of between 14 and 12 miles per hour upstream will be developed. At the rear of the cabin has been painted the portrait of Mr. G. W. Robertson, her name sake, at each side of which are attractive landscape views. The work was done in oil by Robert McCune, a Paducah artist.

The rain for the past two days has swollen the streams around here and a slight rise is looked for today.
From Riverton, Ala., the Kentucky is due Thursday night.
From the Tennessee river the towboat Little Clyde is due with a tow of ties.
Business was quiet around the wharfboat yesterday. Several motor boat parties that had been prearranged had to be declared off on account of the steady downpour.
The towboat Egan left Monday for the Tennessee to load ties.
The towboat Fulton passed down with a tow of coal yesterday morning.

Capt. Al Pritchard is at the wheel of the Egan with Capt. Jack Narro, second engineer.
Charles Elmore has gone watchman on the Dick Fowler.

The "Lucyette," a 16-horse-power motor boat, has been launched here by Messrs. Roy Dawson and Virgil Chastain. She is 25 feet long with a five-foot beam and will seat 14 persons. Her owners expect to develop a speed of 10 miles per hour upstream.

WILLIAM WINTER WRITES OF "THE DECADENT DRAMA."

One of the most caustic and scorching arraignments of the present-day drama that has appeared in the public press for a long time is the article by William Winter on "Decadent Drama," in the current number of Harper's Weekly.

Mr. Winter is the dean of dramatic critics in America. He is a sincere, earnest and appreciative friend of the drama in all its legitimate phases. He believes that "if the mission of the dramatic art be not to help mankind, to cheer, instruct, inspire and improve men and women, making the soul pure, the mind gentle and strong, and the whole being spiritually finer," then the dramatic art should not be longer encouraged or tolerated. He does not approach his topic in the article noticed, therefore, as an enemy, but as a friend of the drama; and, as a matter of fact, no man in this country can speak of it from personal knowledge with greater authority than he.

"Rank plays," says Mr. Winter, have long existed. Degeneracy in the drama is not a modern movement. It is notable, however, that from the time when Pinero's play of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" was anchored upon our stage the dramatic current has been running steadily and with renewed force toward a literal, brazen, shameless portrayal of depraved persons, iniquitous conduct and vile social conditions. Pinero is a dramatist of brilliant ability, his incursion into the social sewers as attended by ample pecuniary success. Other writers, American as well as English, followed his example. The list of impure plays that have seen the light would be a long one.

"The stage has been disgraced by the putrescent 'Sapho,' the monstrous 'Salome'—commencing mania with foulness—and the photographic bomination of 'The Fastest Way.' " One of the plays presented in the few theaters—a house supposed to be dedicated to the best of the drama—was "The Nigger," which Mr. Winter characterizes as "a crude, outlandish, unskillful play," that as for its theme miscegenation in the southern states and depicts the coarsest and most vulgar features of that subject, even to the extent of a tawdry struggle between the "nigger" and the white woman—"one of the most revolting scenes," says Mr. Winter, "that have been acted on my stage or before any audience assumed to be composed of well-bred, self-respecting persons."

Another play "roasted" by the earnest critic is Lawrence Irving's "The Three Daughters of M. Duport." Mr. Irving is pronounced to be "a man of fine and various talents, a scholar, an actor of authority and of decisive ability, with the rest of the most illustrious name in all the long history of the stage," yet he has produced a play declared by the critic to be "representative of nothing except that which is sordid and base as human nature and domestic life, and remarkable only for its exceedingly disgusting scene," etc.

Of the numerous travesties of marriage on the stage Mr. Winter says that "all plays that are designed to implicate and disseminate doctrine as to marriage are superfluous; and many such plays are grossly obnoxious, alike to good judgment, good feeling and good taste. The tendency of the theatrical 'doctrinaires' invariably is toward something that they call 'naturalism,' their manifest desire being, as Mr. Boyesen declares, to see the 'whore' proposed."

"'Whore' so make a face like that when I propose, Miss Johnson?" "Well, Cal," says Liza, "Ah, ain't give you offah propah consideration here'n you takes yo' knee off'n umh co'n'."—New York Tribune.

adored Helen's desire was, to 'break down the code of traditional ethics.' This poisonous sophistry has conspicuously shown itself of late years in poetry and novels no less than in plays."

We have quoted extensively from Mr. Winter's notable article, but much more of it might have been cited with profit. He has sounded a trumpet call for not only refinement and good taste, as against vulgarity and boorishness on the stage, but for decency, for respect for moral law, for the protection of women and children who resort to theaters in such large numbers for entertainment from thinly-veiled "consciousness of thought and suggestion in some cases. Men themselves, if of clean minds and correct lives, may also demand that the stage be cleansed of the contaminating plays that have become so nauseous to every person still fit to be at large in respectable society.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

A Kneeling Proposition.

"Pony" Moore, the once famous minstrel, is dead at the age of 80. He was one of the last of his kind.

"Moore," said a veteran Chicago manager, "used to make up his own jokes. Once when he played here he had his toes run over and I'mped on that night with a foot that resembled a white pillow."

"Ah, he ex tendah-boofed as Liza Johnson!" he said to the audience with a chuckle. "Yo' know 'bout Liza? Young Calhoun White, he see to her, proposin'."

"'Whore' so make a face like that when I propose, Miss Johnson?" "Well, Cal," says Liza, "Ah, ain't give you offah propah consideration here'n you takes yo' knee off'n umh co'n'."—New York Tribune.

One morning a popular young minister was presenting his view upon an important subject under discussion and insisting that he held certain things to be true, the commentators notwithstanding. At this point an old lady was seen to leave the church. On his way home from the service the minister was met by this old lady, bearing a basket. She stopped and handed it to him, saying: "Dear brother, I heeded you say the common taters disagree with you so I've brought you a basket of Virginia yams."—National Monthly.

DESTINY OF THE UNITED STATES

SUBJECT OF LECTURE AT FIRST CHRISTIAN.

Dr. J. W. Lowber Takes an Optimistic View of Future of the Republic.

HISTORY POINTS OUT DANGER

An optimistic view of the future of our country was taken Sunday night by Dr. J. W. Lowber, of Austin, Tex., who delivered a brilliant lecture on "The Destiny of the American Republic" at the First Christian church. Patriotism was the keynote of his discourse and he carried the audience back to the republics of the Semetic and Aryan races, quoting their historical splendor, and finally showing their downfall in a lack of patriotism and disregard for God and man.

Imminent dangers that might tend towards the downfall of the United States were shown by Dr. Lowber, although he analyzed these and pointed out immediate reforms that will result in no danger to the greatest nation that the sun has ever shone down upon.

Dr. Lowber was preceded by Mrs. Lowber, who gave a historical reading of human interest in the life of President Abraham Lincoln, where he interfered to save the life of a loyal soldier, who had been condemned to death for falling asleep while on sentinal duty.

No more fitting time could have been chosen by the lecturer for his sermon, which was on the eve of the Fourth of July. In spite of the threatening skies a large congregation was present to hear his invaluable forecasts for the American republic. At the beginning Dr. Lowber said there ought to be more Christian patriotism, and in speaking of patriotism he said the American people are becoming more patriotic every year. There is a danger in not being patriotic, and some people, he said, do not realize the danger. We should watch and pray and should not be wholly condemned as our intentions may not always be bad. There are two prime factors blacking patriotism—the Devil and human nature. Progress and deterioration are going on, some people going in one direction and some in another; but civilization, as a whole, is marching onward, despite the tendencies. Civilization he compared to a steamship, sailing onward so its destination, although some passengers aboard may be moving in the opposite direction on deck.

Dr. Lowber said the people should be lifted to a higher social and moral plane, and at this point he spoke of the brute in man in prize fights. He predicted that prize fighting will soon be a thing of the past.

First Reported.
Although the greatest now, the republic is something to get. It is a natural growth, and it is a patriotic and lost their reverence and Saul was made king. This marked the downfall of the first great republic of the world. The second greatest republic was that established by the Carthaginians. The constitution of that republic bore a remarkable resemblance to the constitution of the United States. Carthage had a powerful army and a great republic, but like Israel she lost her patriotism. He spoke of the marvelous commercial powers of the Carthaginians.

The republic of Rome went down when the people lost their ideals and thought more about their private matters than their country's future. Rome was called the Eternal

City. It was the danger of sectional troubles Dr. Lowber said this was passing away gradually, due to the shifting of people about the country. There is little danger of foreign influence, he said, as the majority of immigrants come here and love our country and are glad to get away from the despotic powers of the world. Dr. Lowber told of Marshal Field's utterance before his death, saying that the public schools of the United States are doing much to minimize the danger of foreign influence. Dr. Lowber agreed with the late Mr. Field that there should be a reform in the schools in making them secular. This is the present trouble with them.

It is true, he said, that our cities are in some respects the worst governed in the world. Dr. Lowber endorsed the commission form of government that has been adopted by many cities of the United States.

Dr. Lowber said he does not believe there will be any bad results from the combat between capital and labor.

In speaking of the liquor traffic the lecturer cited his audience to the advance of local option and said in the end that the republic of America will strangle liquor instead of liquor strangling the republic. He analyzed the secular influence and said this danger will be obliterated in the conversion of the people.

City and Dr. Lowber told of his visit there several years ago, recalling many familiar spots in the minds of students of history. He then passed on to the republics of Florence, Venice and the Dutch republic, showing their downfall as the result of the very same causes.

The Future.
Coming on down to the present time Dr. Lowber predicted a great future for the United States. Democracy, he said, is taking hold in many of the countries in Europe, and he said it will be only a matter of time before the whole world has adopted democracy. Its success, however, depends on the spirit of patriotism among its people.

Dr. Lowber took up the American republic and pointed out the following dangers that might result in its overthrow: (1) Sectional troubles; (2) foreign influence; (3) ill governed cities; (4) combat between labor and capital; (5) liquor traffic; (6) secular tendencies.

As to the danger of sectional troubles Dr. Lowber said this was passing away gradually, due to the shifting of people about the country. There is little danger of foreign influence, he said, as the majority of immigrants come here and love our country and are glad to get away from the despotic powers of the world.

Didn't Like Course Dinner.

A colored woman, native of the South, had been working for a flat-dwelling family of moderate means in the East End, but resigned recently to accept a place bringing higher wages with a wealthy family who live in a large house on Euclid Heights and have their dinner served in courses every night just as if there was company, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

This colored woman had been brought up to put everything on the table at once, with the exception possibly of the desert, and did not take kindly to the course system.

A few days ago her former mistress met her on the street and inquired how she liked her new place. "Oh, not very well," she replied. "I don't like this high way of 'servin' things in courses. The 'ol too much shiffin' o' the dishes for the fewness o' the vittles."—Savannah News.

TUBERCULOSIS TENT COLONY

WILL BE READY FOR OCCUPANCY AUGUST 15.

Work on Plant Is Progressing and Sanitary Equipment Is Growing.

PLANS OF THE LOCAL LEAGUE.

Barren unforeseen delays the camp of the anti-tuberculosis league will be opened about August 15. The building at Jackson's Hill has been ordered for the building. It will require a month to secure the equipment, and the directors feel certain that all of the details can be arranged and completed in time for the opening.

The entire building is about 150x40 feet, and is on the crest of the hill. The administration building will be equipped with the office and lounge room for the patients while on each end there is a wing for sleeping quarters. The building faces the south and the sleeping quarters are open so that the patients may have an abundance of fresh air.

Sunlight and fresh air are recognized as the greatest remedies for the patients in the incipient stage of tuberculosis, and the sun room is constructed so that the rays of the sun will strike it at any hour of the day. The patients will lounge in the room, and take the sun baths. While the building is not erected and the trees only a short distance away is the pretty grove, where the patients may recline in the shade during the hot days and where a constant breeze is stirring.

The furniture of the camp will be plain and substantial, but in every way adequate to the needs of the patients. Regular hospital beds have been ordered for the sleeping quarters, and every precaution will be taken to insure the camp being sanitary. Easy reclining chairs have been ordered for the use of the patients while lounging around the camp.

It is the intention of the league to issue tracts, educating the people of the dangers of tuberculosis and the simple precautions that will prevent its spread. The state board of health sends out literature, but the local league will further the work in this vicinity. It is planned to have weekly lectures in the public schools instructing the pupils of the dangers of the disease. Local physicians are expected to assist by giving the lectures.

Prof. Haber claims to have solved the problem of the direct synthesis of ammonia from its elements, nitrogen and hydrogen. The process has been purchased by a well-known German firm.

If a man happens to have "more self" than he knows what to do with he is said to have "money to burn."

Women's Beauty.
Imperfect Digestion Causes Bad Complexion and Dull Eyes.

The color in your cheeks won't fade the brightness in your eye won't vanish, if you keep your stomach in good condition.

This was the advice of a prominent physician to a woman's club in Boston and it is good advice.

Beaching of gas, heaviness, sour taste in mouth, dizziness, biliousness and nausea occur simply because the stomach is not properly digesting the food.

The blood needs nourishment to carry vigor, vim and vitality to every part of the body and when food ferments in the stomach enough nourishment is not supplied.

Mi-na stomach tablets give instant relief to upset stomachs, but they to more; they put strength into the stomach and build it up so that it can easily digest a hearty meal without giving its owner hours of misery.

Mi-na is sold by druggists everywhere and by Gilbert's drug store at 50 cents a large box. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion or any stomach distress or money back.

Cool Kitchen—Perfect Cooking

The housewife with years of experience—the woman who knows how to cook—finds, after practical tests and hard trials, the New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is her idea of what a good cook-stove really ought to be.

She finds it requires less attention, costs less to operate, and cooks all food better than any other stove she has ever tried.

She finds the New Perfection oven bakes and roasts perfectly. The

SAFE AND SANE

NOTHING BUT RAIN FOR THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

Picnics and Ball Games, Races and All, Same Story to Tell of the Fourth.

The day was one of the quietest national holidays ever spent in Paducah. Many outing parties were spoiled by the rains, and the races were called off. A large crowd braved the elements, but the continued rains made it impossible to run.

A number of amateur baseball games were called off, too. At Wallace park an elaborate celebration of the Fourth was planned, but the weather interfered with the attendance. The display of fireworks was postponed until tonight.

Chief interest of the day centered in the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and the newspaper offices were like beehives with the anxious sports who were eager to obtain every inkling of the big scrap.

Jupiter Purlins lent a helping hand in adding Paducah to a list of safe and sane celebration of the Fourth of July. Throughout the day scarcely a sound of an exploding firecracker, toy cannon or pistol was heard, and last night the beautiful display of the Roman candles and skyrockets was seldom witnessed.

About the only sound heard all day was the splashing of water as it descended in sheets.

Had the city duds not passed the ordinance prohibiting the sale and use of fireworks in the city, the Fourth would have been safe and sane any way. Not an accident was reported, while the firemen enjoyed a quiet day at the stations.

A Few Short Weeks.

Mr. J. S. Bartlett, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my kidneys became congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley's Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." # OHIO VALLEY SOUTHERN INDUSTRIES WELCOMES

Preparations Under Way For a Comprehensive Industrial Exposition at Cincinnati, Ohio, This Fall.

Cincinnati, O. (Special.)—With almost magic rapidity the buildings which will house the greater portion of the Ohio Valley Exposition, to be held in Cincinnati from Aug. 29 to Sept. 24, are springing up. Two weeks ago the banks of the Miami and Erie canal, where all the temporary structures of the Exposition will be located, was bare of anything that suggested architectural or structural enterprise. Today there are half a dozen buildings rearing their rafters skyward, while the music of half a thousand hammers and saws, in the hands of skilled artisans, attest to the hustle and bustle which is being indulged in, that the exhibits and amusement features of this gigantic industrial enterprise may be properly taken care of when the time comes for their installation.

It will require at least twelve buildings of huge dimensions to take care of the various features that will be offered at the Exposition, this summary not including the magnificent Music Hall and its two mammoth wings, all of which will be devoted to the purposes of the Exposition. The temporary buildings will be in the rear of Music Hall and will extend from Fifteenth street southward as far as the elbow of the canal at the head of Plum street, and eastward to Elm street, the entire stretch of buildings being considerable over half a mile in length, and occupying both banks of the canal. Floral deck promenades will be arranged on

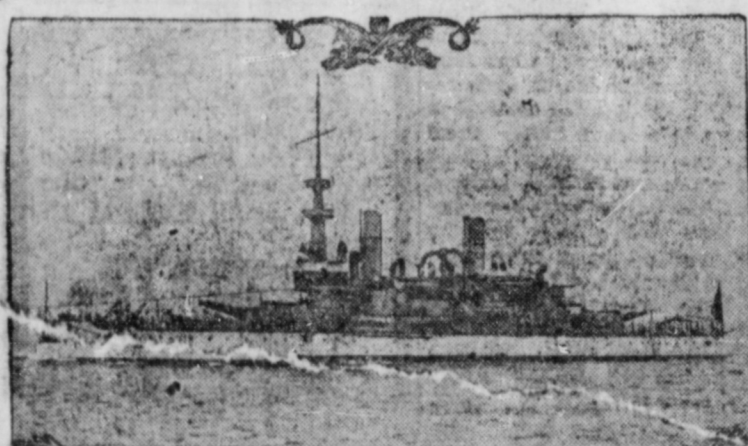

Efforts to Re-Establish Commercial Relations Between Ohio Valley and South Promise Success.

South, while at the same time the South was ignoring the proximity of Ohio Valley manufacturers and seeking various classes of merchandise in other sections. As the natural gateway between the Ohio Valley and the South, Cincinnati felt it was incumbent upon her to bring these sections together in a closer trade relationship; and so the Ohio Valley Exposition was born.

Unique Exhibition. In many respects this Exposition will be unique in the annals of industrial exhibitions. The setting aside of 21,000 square feet of space for a Southern exhibit alone—an exhibit now being assembled by more than thirty Southern railroads and designed to show the best products and resources of the South, irrespective of the section in which they are produced—is an unusual proceeding, and speaks greatly for the liberality of the Exposition management, while at the same time it gives the South a rare opportunity to bring to this market examples of all her best industrial and natural products.

Particular attention is being given to the assembling of "live" or working exhibits in the various departments. These exhibits will consist of working models of various industries, showing how different commodities are produced instead of offering the old, hackneyed exhibits of finished products only. No industry known to the Ohio Valley or the South will be missing from this display, which will either side of the canal, with the exhibition and amusement buildings opening off this long stretch of beautiful walks. At night these walks will be brilliantly illuminated, converting the canal into a shimmering avenue, upon which jolly decorated barges and motor boats, bearing modern troubadours, will glide gracefully, giving this portion of the Exposition a decided carnival aspect.

IS GOING OUT OF STYLE

Fashions change in warships as in everything else. The "Indiana," pictured above, was the latest thing in battleships during the Spanish-American war. Today she is almost passe. For comparison, models of the "Indiana" and the latest type of battleships will be shown at the Ohio Valley Exposition in Cincinnati from Aug. 29 to Sept. 24.

In planning this Exposition, the business men of Cincinnati took into consideration the rather limited trade relations now existing between the Ohio Valley and the South. They felt that the commercial friendship should be more intense than it is at present—that the Ohio Valley was going to distant markets for commodities which her nearest neighbor, the South, was producing at her very

be further enhanced by the addition of a number of exhibits from sections outside of the territory that is supposed to cover the scope of the show. A most attractive feature of the Exposition will be the Government display, Uncle Sam having placed at the disposal of the Exposition all the treasures of his various departments, so that the best collections of the War, Navy, Postoffice, Treasury, Agricultural, Interior and Labor and Commerce departments will be shown. Models of war vessels, money coining machinery and a series of moving pictures, illustrating the workings of the various departments, will be among the special Government exhibit features.

Alluring Amusement Features. The amusement features will include a new popular romantic opera, written especially for the Exposition, and employing more than three hundred people, including some of the leading grand opera stars of the country, with every one in the cast an American; a fire-fighting spectacle, reproducing the historic destruction of the Hoboken docks; a midgut circus; hippodrome, band concerts and many others.

Invitations have been accepted by President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, the governors of all the Ohio Valley states, and other notables, to spend some time at the Exposition. The raising of a guarantee fund of $500,000 by the citizens of Cincinnati is ample proof that the Exposition will be properly financed.

Just That.

"Ah, how pleasant to see a little boy in such a hurry to deliver his message!"

"Aw, go on! I'm just doin' this to keep in trainin' for de next Marathon!"—New York World.

We have noticed that while the politician may still praise the old soldiers a good deal, he doesn't listen to them as much as he used to.

MINIATURE ARMADA TO BE EXHIBITED

Models of All Types of Warships at Ohio Valley Exposition.

Cincinnati, O. (Special.)—What probably will be the most extensive miniature armada ever assembled outside of the Navy Department at Washington, will be shown at the Ohio Valley Exposition, to be held at Cincinnati Aug. 29 to Sept. 24. By arrangement with the United States Navy Department, the most comprehensive display of models of naval vessels ever shown at an exposition will be brought to Cincinnati. The list includes models of practically every type of war vessel now in commission in the navy, as well as several that have made history in the past, to say nothing of a display of the ammunition used in the various sizes of guns aboard the modern vessels. The "boxed navy" which will be shown at the Exposition includes models of the following vessels: Battleship "Maine," the old "Maine," blown up in Havana harbor; the torpedo boat "Shubrick," torpedo-boat destroyer "Decatur," battleship "Virginia," submarine boat "Holland," battleship "South Carolina," floating drydock "Dewey," cruiser "Birmingham," battleship "Tennessee," reproduction by model of the review of the United States Atlantic fleet by the President in Long Island Sound, Sept. 3, 1906, together with many photographs and paintings of famous vessels of the past, and other historical relics in the possession of the Navy Department. It is expected that this exhibition will be one of the most interesting of the entire government display, which, in its entirety, will be the most complete ever assembled.

Foley's Kidney Pills Have Cured Me

The above is a quotation from a letter written by H. M. Winkler, of Evansville, Ind. "I contracted a severe case of kidney trouble. My back gave out and pained me. I seemed to have lost all strength and ambition; was bothered with dizzy spells, my head would swim and specks float before my eyes. I took Foley Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Gilbert's drug store.

OHIO VALLEY WELCOMES SOUTHERN INDUSTRIES

Preparations Under Way For a Comprehensive Industrial Exposition at Cincinnati, Ohio, This Fall.

Cincinnati, O.—(Special).—With almost magic rapidity the buildings which will house the greater portion of the Ohio Valley Exposition, to be held in Cincinnati from Aug. 29 to Sept. 24, are springing up. Two weeks ago the banks of the Miami and Erie canal, where all the temporary structures of the Exposition will be located, was bare of anything that suggested architectural or structural enterprise. Today there are half a dozen buildings rearing their rafters skyward, while the music of half a thousand hammers and saws, in the hands of skilled artisans, attest to the haste and bustle which is being indulged in, that the exhibits and amusement features of this gigantic industrial enterprise may be properly taken care of when the time comes for their installation.

It will require at least twelve buildings of huge dimensions to take care of the various features that will be offered at the Exposition, this summary not including the magnificent Music Hall and its two mammoth wings, all of which will be devoted to the purposes of the Exposition. The temporary buildings will be in the rear of Music Hall and will extend from Fifteenth street southward as far as the elbow of the canal at the head of Plum street, and eastward to Elm street, the entire stretch of buildings being considerable over half a mile in length, and occupying both banks of the canal. Floral decked promenades will be arranged on doors, while at the same time the South was ignoring the proximity of Ohio Valley manufacturers and seeking various classes of merchandise in other sections. As the natural gateway between the Ohio Valley and the South, Cincinnati felt it was incumbent upon her to bring these sections together in a closer trade relationship; and so the Ohio Valley Exposition was born.

Unique Exhibition.
In many respects this Exposition will be unique in the annals of industrial exhibitions. The setting aside of 21,000 square feet of space for a Southern exhibit alone—an exhibit now being assembled by more than thirty Southern railroads and designed to show the best products and resources of the South, irrespective of the section in which they are produced—is an unusual proceeding, and speaks greatly for the liberality of the Exposition management, while at the same time it gives the South a rare opportunity to bring to this market examples of all her best industrial and natural products.

Particular attention is being given to the assembling of "live" or working exhibits in the various departments. These exhibits will consist of working models of various industries, showing how different commodities are produced instead of offering the old, hackneyed exhibits of finished products only. No industry known to the Ohio Valley or the South will be missing from this display, which will

Fashions change in warships as in everything else. The "Indiana," pictured above, was the latest thing in battleships during the Spanish-American war. Today she is almost passe. either side of the canal, with the exhibition and amusement buildings opening of this long stretch of beautified walks. At night these walks will be brilliantly illuminated, converting the canal into a shimmering avenue, upon which gaily decorated barges and motor boats, bearing modern troubadours, will glide gracefully, giving this portion of the Exposition a decided carnival aspect.

In planning this Exposition, the business men of Cincinnati took into consideration the rather limited trade relations now existing between the Ohio Valley and the South. They felt that the commercial friendship should be more intense than it is at present—that the Ohio Valley was going to distant markets for commodities which her nearest neighbor, the South, was producing at her very

Alluring Amusement Features.
The amusement features will include a new popular romantic opera, written especially for the Exposition, and employing more than three hundred people, including some of the leading grand opera stars of the country, with every one in the cast an American; a fire-fighting spectacle, reproducing the historic destruction of the Hoboken docks; a midget circus; hippodrome, band concerts and many others.

Invitations have been accepted by President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, the governors of all the Ohio Valley states, and other notables, to spend some time at the Exposition. The raising of a guarantee fund of $500,000 by the citizens of Cincinnati is ample proof that the Exposition will be properly financed.

Just That.

"Ah, how pleasant to see a little boy in such a hurry to deliver his message!"

"Aw, go on! I'm just doing this to keep in training for the next Marathon!"—New York World.

We have noticed that while the politician may still praise the old soldiers a good deal, he doesn't listen to them as much as he used to.

MINIATURE ARMADA TO BE EXHIBITED

Models of All Types of Warships at Ohio Valley Exposition.

Cincinnati, O.—(Special).—What probably will be the most extensive miniature armada ever assembled outside of the Navy Department at Washington, will be shown at the Ohio Valley Exposition, to be held at Cincinnati Aug. 29 to Sept. 24. By arrangement with the United States Navy Department, the most comprehensive display of models of naval vessels ever shown at an exposition will be brought to Cincinnati. The list includes models of practically every type of war vessel now in commission in the navy, as well as several that have made history in the past, to say nothing of a display of the ammunition used in the various sizes of guns aboard the modern vessels. The "boxed navy" which will be shown at the Exposition includes models of the following vessels: Battleship "Maine," the old "Maine," blown up in Havana harbor; the torpedo boat "Shubrick"; torpedo-boat destroyer "Decatur"; battleship "Virginia"; submarine boat "Holland"; battleship "South Carolina"; floating drydock "Dewey"; cruiser "Brinsford"; battleship "Tennessee," reproduction by model of the review of the United States Atlantic fleet by the President in Long Island Sound, Sept. 3, 1906, together with many photographs and paintings of famous vessels of the past, and other historical relics in the possession of the Navy Department. It is expected that this exhibition will be one of the most interesting of the entire government display, which, in its entirety, will be the most complete ever assembled.

LIQUIDATION IS SEVERELY FELT

MANY STOCKS HAVE TOUCHED THEIR LOWEST POINT.

Dangers From Exuberance in West Fully Realized and Fore-stalled.

CROP AND MONEY SITUATION.

New York, July 5, (Special.)—We have just passed through another period of drastic liquidation. Many stocks have touched their lowest point since the recession first commenced, and are now 15 to 40 points below the high level of the year. The latest cause for renewed weakness was the decision of the interstate commerce commission that some of the Pacific roads had been charging exorbitant rates on portions of traffic near the Pacific coast. This action was at once interpreted as an evidence of continued hostility on the part of the government towards the railroads. Perhaps such interpretation was not entirely warranted, but its effect upon the stock market was distinctly injurious. There is no disguising the fact that our financial leaders are more or less agitated over the continued attacks upon corporations in the legislature and by the government. That there have been abuses which required reform is generally conceded, but the repetition of blows received from the legislature and the government during the last six months is proving decidedly detrimental to the interests of investors. It may be good politics to strike the railroads and big corporations at every opportunity, particularly as some of the reforms insisted upon are necessary; nevertheless the repeated shocks to confidence which these developments provoke ought, if possible, to be avoided. Foreign investors are already becoming particularly sensitive to the attacks upon corporations which, if continued, will not only seriously injure our market abroad, but force an unwelcome return of our securities.

Liquidation.

Unfortunately these shocks have come at a time when confidence has been undermined by other considerations. Liquidation has not been confined to stocks. It has extended to many of the commodity markets, and is finally being felt in land speculation, which in some parts of the country has been vastly overdone. It is now generally recognized that a business reaction is fairly under way. Economy and retrenchment is the order of the day, and the spirit of pessimism which prevails everywhere is in striking contrast with the feeling of optimism which marked the opening of the current year. Our bankers have been more or less apprehensive regarding the western situation, where a spell of unusual prosperity had removed all checks upon extravagance and reckless speculation. It is known that many of the western financial institutions, national banks excluded, were committed to extensive land operations, and that the over-extension of credit thus produced will oblige the interior banks to depend much more heavily than usual upon New York to finance the coming crops. In all probability this danger has been so fully realized that when the time of anticipated stringency arrives it will be found to have been largely discounted. Nevertheless, there still remains some uneasiness regarding the western banking situation, which has been further complicated by unfavorable news regarding the crop of spring wheat. These latter reports have undoubtedly been utilized to their full value. Conceding that some injury has happened in the spring wheat region, this is really only a local affair, since the promise is for a larger yield of winter wheat, and the total wheat crop promises to be about an average one. There is still time for improvement for the remainder of the spring wheat crop. According to the most reliable reports the outlook is for a big crop which will more than compensate for any possible loss in wheat. Corn is of much more importance to the railroads, inasmuch as it not only provides much freight, but is the most important element in the preparation of cattle and hogs for market. The cotton crop is in fair condition, and according to the government report there is good chance for a full yield. The hay crop also promises to be large. As a whole the crop situation is fairly satisfactory. The big yields which were much to be desired are not forthcoming, but on the other hand, there are as yet no indications of serious or damaging deficiency.

Money.

As to the money situation that promises to largely correct itself. Funds are already accumulating, call money being especially abundant because banks are keeping their funds where they will be most readily available. The possibilities of stringency in the crop season have been materially lessened by recent liquidation. Business is dull and requirements on this account are correspondingly reduced. There is little speculation now in progress, and the fact that values of both stocks and commodities are on a considerably lower plane increases the working capacity of the money supply, and also tends to lessen the probabilities of stringency.

Whether the present decline will make any further progress or not is difficult to forecast. In any event some sharp recoveries are about due. There has been a decided increase in the strength of the bear party, and a short interest of considerable importance still exists, and would prove an element of strength in event of further recession. Whatever unfavorable news may come to the surface during the next few weeks must have been largely discounted. Political disquiet; attacks on corporations; trade reaction; speculative liquidation; crop disasters and threatened stringency in money would all seem to have been fully anticipated by the decline of 15 to 40 points, which, as said above, has taken place during the past six months. Many stocks are now selling upon a very attractive investment basis, especially in view of the low rates for money. From now on stocks are likely to pass from weak into strong hands, and investment purchases of high grade securities made at the current level, will later on unquestionably yield handsome returns. Speculative operations, however, will have to be conducted with extreme caution. Prices may undergo sharp rallies, but the powers in control of the market do not yet appear to be working in concert for a higher level, and until bull leadership becomes more pronounced, we can hardly look for a positive recovery.

Pork is called by a doctor an excellent cosmetic. It is guaranteed to provide the complexion of a newly-opened blush rose. If you can't get pork, you are urged to eat bacon. The reason is this: Usually, when the skin is dry, it is deficient in oil, and cosmetics are employed to soften it. Pork is regarded as supplying oil.

"MARGIE" DEFENDS HERSELF TO DEATH

DRIVES KNIFE BLADE INTO ROSE'S HEART.

Bloody Ending of Fourth of July Celebration on the North Side.

OTHER HAD BUTCHER KNIFE.

Another love affair, this time with "a man in the case," came to a tragic end at 7 o'clock last night in Rowlandtown when Marjorie Hines, colored, alias "Black Margie," stabbed her rival, Rosa Stevenson, colored, to death. The girl died instantly, the blade of a rusty Barlow knife finding its way into her heart. Marjorie surrendered at police headquarters three hours later and was locked up in the county jail on a charge of willful murder. Her examining trial in police court was set for Thursday morning.

From the best statements obtainable Rosa had threatened Margie for stealing her lover, "Kid" Curley, a colored barber. At Eureka park, Rowlandtown, late yesterday afternoon, Rosa is said to have discovered her bitter enemy, Margie. She told Deputy Sheriff Charles Clark, who was on duty at the park, that she was going to "beat up" Margie and he warned her not to start any trouble at the park. She replied that she wouldn't raise a disturbance there, but would catch Margie elsewhere.

In the meantime Rosa is said to have procured a long and sharp bladed butcher knife and stood in wait for Margie, who received a tip that she was about to be assassinated and left the park in company with a girl friend. As the story goes Margie and her friend left the park and were in the act of boarding a street car at the terminal of the track when Rosa rushed upon her and pulled her back. Another story is that Rosa made an "insulting" remark about Margie's pink hosiery, and when Margie turned around to see who was responsible for the insult, Rosa rushed upon her with a drawn knife. Creal Broyles, who was standing a short distance off, is said to have grabbed Rosa and wrested the knife from her hands. Rosa made a dash for the sidewalk, grabbed up a brick and threw it at Margie at 6:40 power speed. Margie received the brick under the right eye and dropped. Before Rosa had time to see whether Margie was knocked out Margie came up like a panther and, seizing a

BENTON AND KEVIL ENDS THEIR SERIES.

Marshall County Boys Take Sunday Game and Ballard Team Takes Yesterday's.

Benton, Ky., July 5, (Special.)—

An even break was the result of the series of games between the locals and the Kevil baseball team. Benton won the game Sunday by a score of 6 to 2, while yesterday afternoon the first game of a scheduled double-header went to the Ballard county lads by a score of 4 to 3. Before the third and deciding game could be played the rain interfered with the game. Both games were fast, the game yesterday being played in one hour, while Sunday's game required only one hour and eight minutes.

Tanner was in the box for Kevil yesterday and his masterful pitching resulted in a few securing only two safe hits. Rollins started the game for the Marshall county team, but was batted hard and retired in favor of Black, who held Kevil safe Sunday, granting only three hits. The feature of both games was the splendid fielding of Haddes in left field for Kevil. Martin pitched a pretty game for Kevil Sunday and made 12 batters lay down the willow. The Kevil team was strengthened by several Paducah players. Gallagher, of Paducah, caught two pretty games.

The score of Sunday's game is:
